

Maison Kitsuné was a Parisian record label before branching into fashion — and are we glad it did. Jumper, £315; matchesfashion.com

See what they've done there?
Elvis fan, £3,500, by Luke Morgan; renaissancelondon.com

The only ski-goggle brand to use magnets for interchangeable lenses. More fun, less faff.
Anon M2, £190; anonoptics.com

A simplified four-cylinder combustion engine to build from scratch.
Haynes engine, £30; halfords.com

Use as a classic hanky, a pocket square or, for the brave, a neckerchief.
£5 each; labourandwait.co.uk

The sleekest cafetiere we've ever set eyes on.
From £66, by Freud; suchandsuch.co

Get a blast from the past with a refurbished 1980s Polaroid.
£160; urbanoutfitters.com

He'll be hooked.
Bracelet, £48, by Miansai; mrporter.com

A stylish addition to any bedside table.
Leff copper 24-hour flip clock, £300; habitat.co.uk

More pie, sir? Falcon enamelware pie set, £55; heals.co.uk